The City of El Centro unveils interactive development map

El Centro, Ca. — May 16, 2024 — The City of El Centro unveiled an interactive development map detailing the city's current business and residential development.

The map is regularly updated, providing a convenient and comprehensive way for the public to stay informed about the development happening in the City. The public will have visibility of a project's progress from the moment an application is submitted for new development to the moment the project is completed.

“We currently have a wealth of projects in the city and this interactive map is a tool we provide for our residents to stay informed on the progress,” said City of El Centro Mayor Sylvia Marroquin.

The map, a visual feast of information, is color-coded for your ease of use. It includes roadway projects, utility improvements, commercial, industrial, public facilities, residential, and park developments. Each entry is a gateway to a brief project description, while some provide renderings and photos when available, inviting you to delve deeper into the City's development.

The map is available on the City’s main website, www.cityofelcentro.org
